Technology Strategist | CEO | Board Member | Author

Tiffany Rosik is a tech strategist, author, and founder of TGR Management Consulting, where she drives transformation at the intersection of business growth and technology. With nearly two decades of experience, Tiffany specializes in rescuing complex projects, optimizing operations, and managing risk for Fortune 1000 companies like AMN, WD-40, Quest Diagnostics, and Blue Cross Blue Shield of Illinois.

Tiffany's ability to break down complex ideas and deliver actionable insights leaves her audiences inspired to lead with purpose and drive meaningful change in their industries. She's not one to simply chart a course; Tiffany crafts strategic roadmaps by analyzing business conditions, leveraging the organization's strengths, and mitigating weaknesses. Her genius lies in optimizing resources to establish key objectives.

Beyond her corporate achievements, Tiffany is passionate about project management and nonprofit work. She serves on multiple boards and serves as a mentor to other professionals, offering her strategic insights to organizations committed to making a positive impact. She also sponsors "The Business of Non-Profits" podcast, where she explores social entrepreneurship and philanthropy through a business lens, engaging listeners with critical yet often overlooked topics.
